UCF Relationship Type List

This is the current listing of all Semantic Relationships that the UCF tracks.

Here is the listing that is most current.

- Synonym — Terms that mean exactly or nearly the same thing as the focus term.
- Antonym — Terms that mean the opposite as the focus term.
- Linguistic Parent - Terms that are linguistically broader than the focus term, this includes origins of terms.
- Linguistic Child - Terms that are linguistically narrower than the focus term, this includes derivatives.
  Inverse: Linguistic Parent
- Category For - A term of which the focus term is a kind of.
- Type of - Terms that are kinds or examples of the focus term.
  Inverse: Category For
- Includes - Terms the focus term is an element of.
- Part of - Terms whose definitions are an element of the focus term.
  Inverse: Includes.
- Used to Create - A term that is a template for or used to create the focus term.
- Is Created by - A term that is a template for or used to create the focus term.
  Inverse: Used to Create.
- Is Referenced by - A term that mentions or references the focus term.
- References - A term that the focus term mentions or sites.
  Inverse: Is Referenced by.
- Is used to Enforce — A term that causes the focus term to happen or compels compliance of the focus term.
- Is Enforced by — A term that uses the focus term to happen or cause compliance.
  Inverse: Is used to Enforce
- Used to Prevent — A term that prevents the focus term.
- Is prevented by — A term that is prevented by the focus term.
  Inverse: Used to Prevent
- Manages – A term that is in charge the focus term.
- is managed by – A term that is supervised or controlled by the focus term.
  Inverse: Manages
- Uses – A term that is put to use or utilized by the focus term.
- Is used by – A term that utilizes or puts to use the focus term.
  Inverse: Uses

Visit our website

www.CommonControlsHub.com

Contact sales@unifiedcompliance.com for more information about signing up for a CommonControlsHub Basic Subscription.